Learning Objectives

Upon completion of this course, participants will be able to:

- Improve knowledge and clinical skills in Infectious Diseases
- Discuss the latest strategies for the prevention, recognition, diagnosis, and treatment of important syndromes in Infectious Diseases
- Be able to establish a differential diagnosis and initiate an appropriate diagnostic evaluation for the major infectious disease-related problems in clinical practice
- Discuss the relevant areas of basic science to enable both the comprehension and the application of future discoveries to patient care

Course Description

This course focuses on advances in infectious diseases and their application to direct patient care. Didactic lectures and case-based presentations are both featured. An extensive, well-referenced syllabus supplements the presentations. Ample opportunity for interaction with the expert faculty is provided, including interactive clinical sessions and formal and informal discussions of cases provided by the faculty and by course participants.

Given the diversity of specialties and job descriptions represented in our participants, we have also added case-based breakout sessions led by experienced clinicians.

COURSE HIGHLIGHTS

Common Infectious Diseases: Updates in Prevention, Diagnosis and Treatment

Updates that ensure you are current with the new strategies, best practices and 2015 guidelines for addressing:

- Infections in immunocompromised hosts
- Skin and soft tissue infections
- Endocarditis, UTIs, gastrointestinal infections, and TB
- Bone and joint infections
- Sexually transmitted infections
- ENT infections*
- Pneumonia
- Lyme and other tick-borne diseases
- HIV infection and its complications
- PEP (Post-Exposure Prophylaxis) and PrEP (Pre-Exposure Prophylaxis) to prevent HIV infection
- Vaccinations
- Hepatitis C

Includes revised guidelines for sinusitis and pharyngitis*

Challenging, Rare, and Emerging Infectious Diseases

Comprehensive updates on:

- Ebola, Enterovirus D68 and other emerging infectious diseases
- Infections in travelers and immigrants
- Zoonoses in the US—the old and the new
- Re-emergence of vaccine-preventable diseases in the United States
- Non-tuberculous (“atypical”) mycobacteria
- Eye infections: what you now need to know

Clinical Decision Making

A special opportunity for ID specialists, hospitalists and primary care providers to hear directly from world-renowned specialists and master clinicians on their approach and decision-making criteria for:

- Antimicrobial usage
- Selecting and utilizing newer diagnostics in infectious disease
- Spotting the low-probability, high-impact infections: early detection of life-threatening ID problems
- Determining when to hospitalize vs. treat as an outpatient
- Rational empiric therapy of serious infection: when and how to start, and when to narrow or discontinue
- Is it viral or bacterial? Key factors to consider

Safety, Quality and Practice Improvement

Special sessions on safety, quality, and value added by ID specialists

- Antimicrobial stewardship
- Infection control
- Early inpatient ID consultations to reduce mortality, length of stay, and costs
- Outpatient Parenteral Antibiotic Therapy (OPAT): best practices in design and operation of successful OPAT programs
- ID for hospital medicine practices: metrics for success
 - Inpatient ID consultations
 - Ambulatory ID practices

Accreditation

The Harvard Medical School is accredited by the Accreditation Council for Continuing Medical Education to provide continuing medical education for physicians. The Harvard Medical School designates this live activity for a maximum of 36 AMA PRA Category 1 Credits[™]. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity.

This live activity, Infectious Diseases in Adults, with a beginning date of April 27, 2015, has been reviewed and is acceptable for up to 36 Prescribed credits by the American Academy of Family Physicians. Physicians should claim only the credit commensurate with the extent of their participation in the activity. This activity meets the criteria of the Massachusetts Board of Registration in Medicine for 5 credits of Risk Management Study.

Please check your individual state licensing board requirements before claiming these credits.

The Royal College of Physicians and Surgeons of Canada recognizes conferences and workshops held outside of Canada that are developed by a university, academy, hospital, specialty society or college as accredited group learning activities.

AMA PRA Category 1 Credits[™] claimed by physicians attending live events certified and organized in the United States for AMA PRA Category 1 Credits[™] can be claimed through the agreement on mutual recognition of credits between UEMS and AMA, considered as being equal to the European Continuous Medical Education Credits (ECMEC[®]) granted by the UEMS. One AMA PRA Category 1 Credit[™] is equivalent to one (1) hour of European EACCME Credit (ECMEC[®]), therefore up to 36 ECMEC[®] Credits are available. Each medical specialist should claim only those hours of credit that he/she actually spent in the educational activity.

ACGME Competencies

This course is designed to meet the following Accreditation Council of Graduate Medical Education competencies: patient care, medical knowledge, and interpersonal and communication skills.
